Letter from Mami Kataoka
President of CİMAM

Dear CİMAM friends,

It is my great pleasure to write this message as the new President of CİMAM, a position to which I was elected by the members of the board this past November at the CİMAM Annual Conference in Sydney.
Looking back on 2019, so many projects serve as reminders of the important challenges the contemporary art museum sector faces today, as well as the significant role that CİMAM has as a collective force to bring together professionals from around the world and contribute positively on the future of the profession. In 2019, CİMAM reached an all-time record with over 600 members from 86 countries!

I would like to highlight the actions undertaken by the Museum Watch Program in supporting colleagues around the world who are dealing with increasingly complex situations. For example, the case of the Center for Contemporary Art in Warsaw where the then current director was replaced without any open competition; the cancellation of the exhibition After “Freedom of Expression?” at the Aichi Triennale in Japan; and the systematic harassment of leading cultural professionals by the government in Turkey.

Strengthening our relationship with İCOM will continue to be one of our goals. In September 2019, from then Board, Suhanya Raffel, Eugene Tan, Sunjung Kim and myself attended İCOM’s 25th General Conference in Kyoto and had a productive conversation with Ms. Suay Aksoy, President of İCOM, which confirmed CİMAM’s commitment with İCOM. And Suhanya presented the Contribution of Modern and Contemporary Art Museums in a Global 21st Century.
The full presence at CÎMAM’s 2019 Annual Conference in Sydney of Ms. Suay Aksoy was especially significant in emphasizing our positive and collaborative relationship, while reinforcing the common values and objectives that should be discussed globally among all the museum sectors. Attended by 200 participants, The 21st Century Art Museum: Is Context Everything? was a very successful edition with remarkable speakers that addressed the evolving discussions between core museological practices and values, and the necessary responsiveness of museums to context in their drive to remain relevant, innovative, and accessible.

Augmenting existing CÎMAM initiatives, in 2019 we announced the creation of a new award to acknowledge visionary practice within the museum sector –“CÎMAM Outstanding Museum Practice Award”– and the new Working Group –“Sustainability and Ecology in Museum Practice”– with the aim of responding collectively with CÎMAM members to the question How can museums respond to the climate emergency?

As the first non-European President in the history of CÎMAM, I am committed to making CÎMAM a truly global organization. The members of the board and I are all very much looking forward to developing further CÎMAM’s network and leadership role in promoting good practices in the modern and contemporary art museum profession.
I hope we can count on our members’ involvement to continue building a strong CÎMAM that can lead the discussions and provide answers to the challenges that museums are and will be facing in the years to come.

I hope you find the enclosed information of interest and I look forward to seeing you soon!

Warm regards,

Mami Kataoka

Museum Watch Program

The 2017–19 Museum Watch Committee consisted of five board members of CİMAM – Bart De Baere, Jaroslaw Suchan, Calin Dan, Sunjung Kim, and Sarah Glennie – was especially active in 2019 as colleagues around the world deal with increasingly complex situations.

In 2012 CİMAM initiated a series of news publications regarding the different critical situations of Museums and Collections around the world, also in regions affected by world economic and political crises.

The Museum Watch Program serves as an advocacy program addressing specific critical situations that impact museum professionals and not-for-profit institutions of modern and contemporary art.

2019 Museum Watch Actions

In 2019, four cases were the subject of analysis by the Museum Watch Committee. The appointment by the Polish Minister of Culture of a new director to replace the present one at the Ujazdowski Castle Centre for Contemporary Art in Warsaw without any open competition for the nomination; the call on the Aichi Triennial to reopen an exhibition cancelled; Ralf Beil's termination of contract by the Board of Kunstmuseum Wolfsburg in March and the CİMAM statement regarding Osman Kavala and Turkish cultural professionals in January

Sustainability and Ecology in Museum Practice

This program was launched in November 2019 with the aim of responding to the current climate emergency and of working together with ICOM’s Sustainability Working Group to identify and put together a set of best practice guidelines. The group on sustainability and ecology will be addressing the following questions and developing them collectively with CÎMAM members: How can museums respond to the climate emergency?

For the first time in 2019, CÎMAM replaced its printed conference booklet with an app and plastic bottles with metallic refillable ones.

Climate change was one of the workshop topics that attendees discussed during the CÎMAM 2019 Annual Conference held in Sydney. Workshops conclusions included questions that are key when considering how to raise awareness and formulate common solutions for the contemporary art museum sector worldwide:
- How we could connect as a sector and how can we avoid working in isolation so as not to duplicate what other people are doing (ICOM, Bizot Group, etc.)? How can we connect up and become a force together?

- How can we address our deep systems and conventions that are built on decades of a particular type of activity, which is incredibly costly in terms of the impact on the environment? Shipping vast quantities of art around the world, our international movements as curators, attracting vast global audiences to international museums.

- The complexity for some institutions to make a declaration of climate emergency in countries where governments are not prepared to accept the reality. And that, as a sector, there is the need to create real awareness and solidarity around it.

- Museums are more trusted than many other public spaces. Can we leverage that power, not just to address the audiences who come in, who are already part of the conversation, but those conversations we're not having and those people we not having them with?

The role of the museum in relation to the environmental crisis will be one of the main topics of CÎMAM’s 2020 Annual Conference to be held in Lodz and Gdansk, Poland this November.

Engaging with İCOM

This is a new working group established in November 2019 with the aim to strengthen our relationship with İCOM. As part of CİMAM’s strategic goals for this triennial, this new working group will work closely with İCOM on key issues that concern museums globally, such as climate change and ethics. The presence at CİMAM’s 2019 Annual Conference in Sydney of Ms. Suay Aksoy was especially significant in emphasizing our positive and collaborative relationship while reinforcing the common values and objectives that should be discussed globally among all the museum sectors.

2020 Annual Conference

Lodz and Gdansk, November 6–8

The CİMAM 2020 Annual Conference will be held in Lodz and Gdansk, Poland on November 6–8, hosted by Muzeum Sztuki in Lodz and NOMUS – New Art Museum in Gdańsk.

Central and Eastern Europe are currently going through a period of extremely important political and social changes produced by the clash of conservative populism is on the rise with the neoliberal model that not so long ago dominated the political landscape in this region. These changes also exert an impact upon art and culture and upon the development of institutions dealing with collecting and disseminating modern and contemporary art.

The CİMAM Annual Conference organized in Lodz and in Gdansk will, on the one hand, provide an excellent opportunity to show to the international community of museum professionals how institutions and artistic circles in Central and Eastern Europe cope with these changes and, on the other hand, it would support their efforts to remain autonomous and independent of political and economic powers.
The CÎMAM 2020 Contents Committee consists of five board members 2020–22:

Malgorzata Ludwisiak (Chair)
Saskia Bos
Agustín Pérez Rubio
Eugene Tan
Victoria Noorthoorn

The 2020 Hosting Executive and Organizing team consists of:

Jaroslaw Suchan, Director of Museum Sztuki
Aneta Szylak, Head of NOMUS – National Museum in Gdansk
Daniel Muzyczuk, Head of Modern Art Department, Muzeum Sztuki
Maja Wójcik, Deputy Director, Muzeum Sztuki

Press and International Visibility

The objective of the current Press & Communication campaign is to position CİMAM as a relevant institution in the professional art world. Giving visibility to its projects through international media and finding possible collaborations within other institutions that offer a space or platform to communicate and share CİMAM’s initiatives.

In 2019 we have doubled the number of appearances in the international and national media, from 35 to 79.

Some of them with interviews dedicated to the members of the board where the mission of CİMAM has been treated extensively and in-depth.
To achieve these goals, the communication department has developed a complete and international database with both art and mass media, the official Press Kit and three Press Releases.

Articles and interviews include among others:

Finestre Sull'Arte: Interview with Elizabeth Ann Macgregor and Mami Kataoka.

ExitMedia: Interview with Elizabeth Ann Macgregor.

AIICA Turkey: Interview with Elizabeth Ann Macgregor, Mami Kataoka and Frances Morris.

ArtMonthly Australasia: Interview with Ngahiraka Mason.

Creative Feel: Interview with Ernestine White-Mifetu.
